

WORK STUDY

This is a federal work program for students with financial need that employs students in campus offices. As a work-study employee, students may work up to 20 hours per week and earn at least minimum wage. Interested students should contact the Financial Aid Office to inquire about available positions. If hired, students receive a paycheck from EFSC's Payroll Department every two weeks based on the numbers of hours worked and the hourly wage.

Various campus departments also hire a limited number of Student Assistants who do not qualify for work study. Students may inquire with the Associate Dean/Dean regarding Student Assistant positions if interested in on-campus employment.
